Variance Petition Criteria

That there are unique physical conditions, including irregularity, narrowness or shallowness of lot or shape, exceptional topography, or other existing features peculiar to the particular lot; and that as a result of such unique physical conditions, practical difficulties or unnecessary hardships arise in complying strictly with the bulk provisions of these Regulations.

Based on the layout of the property, it is best that the addition be placed on the proposed site; using the design of the 30ft setback.

That the variance, if granted, will not alter the essential character of the neighborhood or district in which the lot is located; will not substantially impair the appropriate use or development of adjacent property; and will not be detrimental to the public welfare.

The approved design using a 30ft setback is the most appealing to the look of the neighborhood. The design was created to keep the look of a single family home; The variance will not impair adjacent property or affect public welfare. The current design was created so that the addition does not look like a separate residence but simply adding to the single family home look.

That such practical difficulties or hardships have not been created by the owner provided, however, that where all other required findings are made, the purchase of a lot subject to the restrictions sought to be varied shall not itself constitute a self-created hardship.

This variance is not being requested due to a problem created by the homeowner. There is no zoning violation.

That within the intent and purpose of these Regulations, the variance, if granted, is the minimum variance necessary to afford relief.

Yes, the 30ft variance being requested will provide the necessary space for the addition based on the design best suited for the homeowner and neighborhood.

That no variance be granted to the minimum criteria established in Section 131.0 for Conditional Uses except where specifically provided therein or in an historic district. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the granting of variances in any zoning district other than to the minimum criteria established in Section 131.0.

The footage amount being requesting is the minimum amount necessary for the approved design for the addition.
